WASHINGTON STATE COURT OF APPEALS
DIVISION TWO

WILLIAM CURRY Jr.,
APPELLANT,
V.

Case # 54788-I-II

William Van Hook, Dr. Brian Judd Ph.d.
P.C., Washington State Department of Social Services D.S.H.S., Sub Agency, Special
Commitment Center et al.

RESPONDENT.

I. REPLY TO STATE'S INTRODUCTION

A. Appellant is an alleged sexually violent predator (SVP) that does not have a history of sexually abusing children this is another example of the dishonesty of the Attorney Generals Office and misuse in a Court proceeding. With the assistance of counsel, Appellant did stipulate in 2011 that the content of the underlying SVP civil commitment petition provided probable cause because my Attorney at the time told me that know one wins a probable cause hearing. Appellant was required to give the psychologist another bit at the apple from the poisons tree through the Department of Social and health Services Sub Division Special Commitment Center to hold him on a false diagnosis given for punitive detention.

B. Appellant filed the Petition for Writ of Habeas Corpus that is the subject of his appeal because his Constitutional rights are being suppressed by being forced to go

AMENDED REPLY BRIEF

WILLIAM CURRY Jr.
P.O. BOX 88600
STEILACOOM, WA 98388

1 to trial by use of false evidence so my only course of action is to pursue a Writ of 2 Habeas Corpus. Appellant advised the Court that the Attorney Generals Office 3 represents all Respondent's named the Court Clerk made it seem like Appellant 4 added a new Respondent so the case was continued until the next hearing. If the 5 Attorney General finds that the acts were within the employee's scope of official 6 duties or in good faith purported to be within the officials duties, then the Attorney 7 General must provide that representation. Appellant filed three notice of service two 8 by certified mail receipt which the Court would not acknowledge as proper service 9 until on the third time Appellant paid a Process Services to serve the Attorney 10 General.

11 C. Appellant did not file a reply to the Attorney Generals substantive response to 12 the petition because he new would not get a fair court proceeding the judge of that 13 court made that clear throw his actions. Respondent's are quick to say what court 14 rules Appellant did not follow but when it comes to the Respondent's late notice of 15 appearance to default judgment any excuse will do.

16 D. Appellant does not just speculate at collusion its right there in the courts face 17 Appellant ask the Judge to disqualify him self form his Writ of Habeas Corpus 18 Proceeding because he sits over Appellant's 71.09 Proceeding this request was 19 denied by the Court, the all of a sudden the Attorney General files a late appearance 20 you don't have to be a rocket scientist to know that the appearance of fairness 21 doctrine has been violated.

22 E. Appellant has studied the limited case law about the diagnosis and has not found 23 one that address the false fraudulent mental disorder given to Appellant out of the 24 blue just because you have used that diagnosis in the pass does not make it good the State is depending on the Appellant to lay down and just accept a diagnosis that just came out of thin air. Appellant cannot let the State justify saying the diagnosis can be litigated or can be thoroughly tested at Appellant's pending SVP proceeding

1 because the State and the Judge have denied the only test for scientific evidence to 2 held a Fry Hearing.

3 F. Appellant's filing for his Writ of Habeas Corpus is timely and ripe when the 4 confinement comes with out proof beyond a reasonable doubt, for this reason Writ 5 of Habeas Corpus should be heard on the merit's and a evidence hearing on 6 Appellant currently suffering from a current mental disorder, State flatly rejected the 7 scientific literature.

8 II. REPLY TO COUNTERSTATEMENT OF THE ISSUES

9 A. The Court Should Ignore the State's Complaints Regarding the Form of 10 Appellant's Appeal. The State has complained that Appellant's Appeal makes 11 "know citations to cases with no explanation of their holdings or potential relevance 12 to his claims". Reply to A. Issues page 3.

13 B. The Court Should Ignore the State's Complaints Regarding Appellant' due 14 process violations and the appearance of fairness doctrine, and improper ex parte 15 communication, Appellant's factual support is just as good as the Attorney Generals 16 mysteries staff member letting him know about the default hearing and to respond 17 since the Judge ask was there any one from the Attorney Generals Office in the 18 courtroom and know one responded. Reply to B. issues page 3.

19 C. The Court Should Ignore the State's Complaints Regarding if the trial court 20 properly denied Appellant's default judgment even if other jurisdictions is not a 21 available remedy for habeas petitions and where the record in this case shows there 22 was continued stubbornness on the courts part to accept the way service was process, 23 when the process would be good for any other inmate. Reply to C. issues page 3.

24 D. The Court Should Ignore the State's Complaints Regarding Appellant's so called remedy of fully contesting Appellant's status as an alleged SVP during Appellant's still pending civil commitment trial. Appellant should not be force to go to a trial when the evidence is false and fraudulent mental health diagnosis to begin with how

WILLIAM CURRY Jr.
P.O. BOX 88600

1 is that a fair trial. Reply to D. issues page 3, 4.

2 E. The Court Should Ignore the State's Complaints Regarding Appellant's Writ of 3 Habeas Corpus as untimely, the court did not properly dismiss Appellant's petition it 4 was the remedy to the constitutional violations at the hands of state actors acting 5 under the color of law. Reply to D. issues page 3, 4.

6 III. REPLY TO STATEMENT OF THE FACTS

7 A. THE ALLEGED SEXUALLY VIOLENT PREDATOR CIVIL 8 COMMITMENT PROCEEDING AGAINST APPELLANT

9 1. In January 2009, the State of Washington filed a petition to civilly commit 10 Appellant as a sexually violent predator (SVP). In support of its petition, the State 11 submitted a fraudulent probable cause certification. Again the State try's to input 12 something in to the record that is not there Appellant does not have any crimes 13 against children Appellant's Indecent Liberties charges happened when Appellant 14 was 12 years old and the victim was 13 years old, and Appellant had another 15 Indecent Liberties when he was 14 years old and the victim was 13 years old this is 16 just another example of the State trying to push there agenda at any means necessary 17 to booster the State's power over Appellant. Reply to A. issues page 4.

18 2. The Court Should Ignore the State's Statement Regarding the submission of a 19 resent psychological evaluation of Appellant conducted by Dr. Brian Judd, PhD., Dr.
20 Judd diagnosed Appellant with Paraphilia Not Otherwise Specified (NOS)
21 (Nonconsent) Cocaine abuse, Cannabis Abuse, Alcohol Abuse and Antisocial 22 Personality disorder in 2006, with know history of mental illness any were in 23 Appellant's prison files or medical files but after four hours with Dr. Judd Appellant 24 has a mental abnormality after fourteen and a half years in prison without any history of sexually acting out. A made up disorder that has been used and abused so much that the Authors of the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders,(DSM – TR-1V). Heller v. Shaw Indus. Inc, 167 F.3d 146, 153 (3rd. Cir.1999) Expert and Methodology Used. Reply A. to issues page 5.

3. The Court Should Ignore the State’s statement Regarding the Diagnosis because of the Abuse and misuse of the Paraphilia Not Otherwise Specified (NOS) (Nonconsent) Diagnosis in the (DSM –TR-1V) Fourth Edition and Editions before that The Authors the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders, (DSM-5) Fifth Edition. In Vitek v. Jones, 455 U.S. 480, 492-493 (1980), the Supreme Court held that, absent a determination in a civil commitment proceeding of current mental illness and dangerousness, even an incarcerated prisoner serving a criminal sentence could not be transferred to a mental institution. There, the Supreme Court noted that even a convicted felon serving his criminal sentence has a liberty interest, which is not extinguished by his criminal confinement, in not being transferred to a mental institution and thus classified as mentally ill. (445 U.S. at 493.) The Court held that “[t]he loss of liberty produced by an involuntary commitment is more than a loss of freedom from confinement.” (Id. At 492.) That case, like Addington v. Texas, 441 U.S. 418 (1979), did not address pretrial detention. Reply to A. issues page 5.

4. The Court Should Ignore the State’s statement Regarding any diagnosis given to Appellant none of them have been present for at least 6 months if ever and causes marked distress or impairment in social, occupation or other important areas of functioning. Dr. Judd and the State went to use Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders in State’s favor without following it completely as to follow the Highlights of Changes from the DSM –IV to DSM-5 as well as the Cautionary Statement of the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders, Appellant can not be diagnosis with a mental disorder for civil commitment just out of the blue to continue punishment. Appellant decided to stand up for his Constitutional rights not to be civil committed through use of a false / fraudulent mental health diagnosis

1 given 14 and half years later and to go for a evaluation and in about 4 hours without 2 any medical history of mental or any sexual acting out in prison illness, and test used 3 for insurance to predict Curry's Civil Commitment Evaluation page 33. Mandatory 4 Language of the DSM-TR-IV, DSM-V Based upon Mr. Curry's presentation when 5 seen on 9/25/06 there did not appear to be a basis for assigning an Axis I DSM-IV-6 TR4 affective disorder diagnosis. The DSM-IV-TR defines Paraphilia as, "recurrent, 7 intense sexually arousing, fantasies, sexual urges, or behaviors gene- rally involving 8 1) non-human objects, 2) the: suffering or humiliation of oneself or one's partner, or 9 3) children or other non-:consenting persons that occur over a period of at least 6 10 months." which makes diagnoses given Fourteen Years later a Violation of due 11 process, and equal protection under the Constitution. Reply to A. issues page 5.
12 5. The Court Should Ignore the State's statement Regarding any diagnosis given to 13 Appellant Appellant's claims are covered by the fourth amendment and must be 14 analyzed under the reasonableness standard governing searches and seizures. The 15 eighth Circuit Court of Appeals has observed that: The fourteenth amendment 16 guarantees "substantive due process which prevents the government from engaging 17 in conduct that shocks the conscience or interferes with rights implicit in the concept 18 of ordered liberty". Weiler v. Purkett, 137 F.3 1047, 1051(8th Cir. 1998) (en banc).
19 To that end, the fourteenth amendment prohibits "conduct that is so outrageous that 20 it shock the conscience or otherwise offends Judicial notions of fairness or is 21 offensive to human dignity". Id.(quoting Weimer v. Amen, 870 F.2d1400, 1405 (8th 22 Cir. 1989); Moran v. Clarke, 296 F.3d 638, 643 (8th Cir. 2002). Dr. Judd his 23 particular diagnostic categories does not apply to the Respondent because Dr. Judd 24 has employed, "Shifting Time Referents" by using predominately Old Information that does not show that Appellant every had a mental condition or history of in his D.O.C. Master-file to make a diagnosis of his alleged currentcondition. Whatever it's original cause; it must be a CURRENT

1 manifestation of a behavior, psychological or biological dysfunction in the 2 individual. In the case of In re Detention of Samuelson, 189 Ill. 2d 548, 727 N.E.
3 2d 228 (Ill.2000), Chief Justice Harrison of the Illinois Supreme Court wrote in his 4 concurring opinion of the Court on January 21, 2000 that: "A defendant cannot be 5 involuntarily committed based on past conduct. Involuntary Confinement is 6 permissible only where the defendant presently suffers from a mental disorder, and 7 the disorder creates a substantial probability that he will engage in acts of sexual 8 violence in the future." Dr. Judd's report, previous testimony and any subsequent 9 testimony should be excluded and ruled as unreliable, inaccurate, misleading and 10 unsubstantiated because Dr. Judd has not presented and demonstrated a prima facie 11 showing, beyond a reasonable doubt that the Respondent has a Current mental 12 disorder that warrants commitment under the Act. WHEREFORE, the Petition for 13 Commitment under RCW, 71.09 should be dismissed with prejudice. Reply to A.
14 issues page 5.

15 6. The Court Should Ignore the State's statement Regarding any Response from the 16 State about probable cause because the evidence used was fraudulent and non- 17 existent and made up on the spot to hold Appellant for thirteen more years. After 18 probable cause was found then Appellant's attorney submitted to Appellant to sign 19 at the special commitment center (SCC). Appellant should not have to give the 20 prosecuting agency and the evaluator so many bit's at the apple with a fraudulent 21 mental disorder, and misinformation used to begin with. The probable cause 22 determination in this case was found using standard held to be unconstitutional by 23 the U.S. Supreme Court. Previously there existed a great deal of ambiguity, result- 24 ing in controversy, surrounding the methodology used by the DSHS in making SVP evaluations. Applying the Crane decision rationale and requirements will now force the DMH to completely change their methods, particularly since Crane has now added additional constitutional requirements that simply were not part of the DMH

1 evaluations performed in the present case. Such as: any showing of a current serious 2 inability to control behavior; or a current mental abnormality. The Crane standards 3 must now be applied retroactively. "We acknowledge the existence of the new rule 4 of law requiring a change of statutory interpretation to be applied retroactively."
5 Rosebud Souix Tribe v. State of South Dakota, (8th Cir.1990) 900 F.2d 1164,1172, 6 citing U.S. v. Estate of Donnley, (1970) 397 U.S. 286, 294-295. "This rule explains 7 that [t]he effect of the subsequent decisions is not to make a new law but only to 8 hold that the law always meant what the court now says it meant." Fleming v.
9 Fleming, (1924) 264 U.S. 29, 31- 32. Therefore, the critics of the DSHS
10 methodology, who have long claimed that the Foucha decision also applied to SVP 11 proceedings, were always correct. Because these constitutional standards were not 12 met at the Probable Cause Hearing, and also because the Trial Court applied the 13 wrong standards when it found probable cause, that finding is no longer reliable.
14 Now the Crane has clarified the requirements, the Prosecutors burden is significantly 15 increased leaving two of the three Crane constitutional requirements unmet. The 16 Ninth Circuit Federal Appeals Court has held that indictments are insufficient if they 17 fail to state a material element of the offense. U.S. v. ORS, Inc., (9th Cir.1993) 997
18 F.2d 628, 630-631. Some guidance may also be found from other state's SVP 19 probable cause hearing jurisprudence: (Probable cause hearing is summary 20 proceeding at which state must establish plausible account on each required 21 element, based on all reason- able inferences that can be drawn from the facts.
22 Analogy drawn to preliminary hearing in felony. Expert opinion based solely on 23 inadmissible hearsay does not constitute probable cause. State v. John T. Watson, 24 (1999) 227 Wis.2d 167, 595 N.W.2d 403.) (At the preliminary examination, the court deter- mines whether probable cause exists at the time of the examination rather than at the time of the arrest. In the present case, everything presented by the Attorney Generals office DSHS experts was based on events that occurred prior to 1 Appellant's alleged being looked at for civil commitment in 2009, and fourteen and 2 a half years later with know history of sexually act out our any mental health issues 3 during prison sentence or the thirteen years at the special commitment center. The 4 Court in Henry v. Estelle, (9th Cir.1993) 993 F.2d 1423, held that a state court's 5 admission of evidence of unchanged crime (a sex offense) was highly prejudicial, 6 and violated the petitioner's due process rights warranting habeas relief. The normal 7 procedure to challenge a probable cause finding is a writ of habeas corpus. See In re 8 Kirk, (1999) 88 Cal.Rptr.2d 648, 76 Cal.App.4th 1066; People v. Talhelm, (2000) 9 102 Cal.Rptr. 150. Therefore, Petitioner now brings this petition for a Writ of Habeas Corpus. Reply to A. Counterstatement of Facts the issues page 6.

10 7. The Court Should Ignore the State's statement Regarding any Response from the 11 State about a Frye hearing regarding the Paraphilia Not Otherwise Specified 12 (Nonconsent) diagnosis the diagnosis is not commonly accepted in the relevant 13 scientific community. Appellant should not be subject to the same fraudulent 14 evidence used to get him here, and a Addendum to Dr. Brian Judd's report that said 15 noting has changed even through the science had at that time. Dr. Judd's fraudulent 16 contradictory psychiatric report, based on old information, does constitute new 17 factor for purposes of using pass sentence as a bases for civil commitment. A 18 contradictory report merely confirms that mental health professionals will due 19 anything for money even giving a fraudulent diagnosis to hold petitioner. The State 20 has failed to differentiate the non-psychiatric evidence at the time of Judd's report.
Reply to A. issues page 7.

21 8. The Court Should Ignore the State's statement Regarding any Response about 22 Appellant not cooperating. The refusal of Appellant to cooperate with the another 23 evaluation by Dr. Judd perhaps frustrated the State's objectives. In any event, 24 petitioner wanted the trial court to be aware of his being given a mental disorder just for commitment. The statute expressly provides for post commitment evaluation, but

1 it makes no mention of evaluations during pretrial discovery. CR 35 is inconsistent 2 with the special proceedings set out in chapter 71.09 RCW. Reply to A. issues page 3 7.

4 10. The Court Should Ignore the State's statement Regarding any Response about 5 currently suffering form any mental condition to hold Appellant who does not have 6 mental disorder is inherently punitive and meets the "stigma-plus" test. See Doe v.
7 Otte, 248 F.3d 832 (9th Cir. 2001), and Paul v. Davis, 424 U.S. 693, 96 S.Ct. 1155, 8 47 L.Ed.2d 405 (1976). Appellant's argument that the State knowingly presented 9 false testimony of Dr. Judd. Giglio v. United States, 405 U.S. 150 (1972): Under 10 Giglio, a prosecutor has a duty to correct testimony he or she knows to be false. See 11 405 U.S. at 153-54. In order to establish a Giglio violation, a defendant must show 12 that (1) the testimony was false; (2) the prosecutor knew of the false testimony; and 13 (3) the testimony was material. Reply to A. issues page 7.

20 1. The Court Should Ignore the State's statement Regarding any Response from the 21 State about Appellant's Writ of Habeas Corpus Appellant filed the Habeas Corpus 22 RCW Chapter 7.36 in Pierce County Superior Court the case was origin- ally 23 assigned to a Judge Cumbersome Some kind of away Appellant's 71.09 proceeding 24 Judge is hearing Appellant's Writ of Habeas Corpus which should have been considered a conflict of interest the next thing Appellant's 71.09 attorney is setting up court dates for Appellant's habeas corpus proceedings. Appellant named all the Respondents in his original Writ of Habeas Corpus Petition as the Respondent has in

1 there response as I will hear William Van Hook, Dr. Brian Judd, and the Special 2 Commitment Center, sub agency of Department of Social and Health Services.
3 Reply to B. issues page 8.

4 2. It is clear that the essence of habeas corpus is an attack by a person in custody 5 upon the legality of that custody, and that the traditional function of the writ is to 6 secure release from illegal custody. Preiser v. Rodriguez, 411 U.S. 475, 484, 93 7 S.Ct. 1827, 36 L.Ed.2d 439 (1973). The Supreme Court has traced the history of the 8 writ: Over the years, the writ of habeas corpus evolved as a remedy available to writ: 9 effect discharge from any confinement contrary to the Constitution or fundamental 10 law. Id. at 485, 93 S.Ct. 1827, and has described the writ as "the fundamental 11 instrument for safeguarding individual freedom against arbitrary and lawless state 12 action," Harris v. Nelson, 394 U.S. 286, 290-91, 89 S.Ct. 1082, 22 L.Ed.2d 281 the state of Washington under the color of law. Reply to B. issues page 9.

9 the State of Washington for Pierce County some how was able to be assigned to 10 Appellant's Writ of Habeas Corpus at every court hearing the process has not been

12 5. The Court Should Ignore the State's statement Regarding any Response from the 14 to make service on Respondents. Even after Appellant unequivocally served the 15 petition on the Attorney General the state counsel for all state actors named the 16 Attorney General did not enter a notice of appearance by the due date the court is 18 10.

19 8. The Court Should Ignore the State's statement Regarding any Response from the 20 State about the dismissal of Appellant's Default Judgment because the Honorable 21 Philip K. Sorensen and the Attorney Generals Office would have the Court of 22 Appeals and Appellant believe the rules only applied to the Appellant and not to all 23 parties involved. Haupt v. Dillard, 17 F3d 285 (9th Cir. 1994), see also Liljerberg v.
24 Heath Serv. Corp, 486 US 847, 100 LEd2d 855, 108 SCt 2194 (1988) Right to a fair

10 10. The Court Should Ignore the State's statement Regarding any Response from 11 the State about Appellant's Write of Habeas Corpus being untimely State instituted 12 these issues and litigated without any significant changes until Appellant decided to 13 stand up for his Constitutional rights not to be civil committed through use of a false 14 / fraudulent mental health diagnosis given 14 and half years later and to go for a 15 evaluation and in about 4 hours without any medical history of mental or any sexual 16 acting out in prison illness, and test used for insurance to predict Curry's Civil 17 Commitment. Appellant has read there has been know changes to SVP's making a 18 challenge to presently or currently suffering from a mental illness. For the Appellant 19 the only way to challenge the diagnosis given is a Writ of Habeas Corpus. Reply to

21 IV. ARGUMENT

22 A. Reply to States Argument that Appellant's Brief Does not comply with the 23 rules of Appellate Procedure and the court should decline Review of 24 Appellant's Claims

1. The Court Should Ignore the State's statement Regarding any Response from the State about Appellant's Brief regarding the Form of Appellant's brief. The State has complained that Appellant's brief makes "know citations to cases with no

1 explanation of their holdings or potential relevance to his claims” and that Appellant 2 did not comply with Rules of Appellate Procedure. The form that Appellant used in 3 filing his Appellant brief was obtained from the Special Commitment Center law 4 library. The form was essentially like that in the Forms, Rules of Appellate 5 Procedure. Reply to A. issues page 13.

6 2. The Court Should Ignore the State’s statement Regarding any Response from the 7 State about Appellant’s claims without meaningful analysis The form Appellant 8 followed specifically requested that formal legal arguments not be made. Similarly, 9 case law citations were to be included if possible. There was no requirement that 10 Appellant was to include lengthy explanations of the case holdings. Reply to A.
11 issues page 13.

12 3. The Court Should Ignore the State’s statement Regarding any Response from the 13 State about Appellant to comply with Rules of Appellate Procedure Challenge to 14 state and federal constitutional protections, this is a very complex legal analysis that 15 is probably far beyond Appellant’s ability, not only because of his lack of legal 16 education and training, but also because he lacks access to the necessary legal 17 research volumes that would allow him to make an adequate analysis. This is the 18 reason Appellant motioned the court for appointment of legal counsel. Appellant 19 will, however, attempt to address the factors in this reply, to the best of his ability, 20 and with the extremely limited research sources that he has available to him at the 21 SCC. Reply to A. issues page 14.

22 4. The Court Should Ignore the State’s statement Regarding any Response from the 23 State about Appellant’s judicial considerations the state cannot claim that it was 24 without notice that Appellant intended to pursue his state constitutional claims.
Appellant has now addressed the factors in his reply brief and the core issues are not new; only the application of the State constitution to the facts as they apply under RCW 71.09 is new. There is no valid reason why the court should not first consider Appellant's state constitutional claims. See State v. Mendez, 137 Wn.2d 208, 216-17 (1999). Reply to A. issues page 13, 14.

5. Surely, the State cannot be asking that the Court refuse to address the claims raised in Appellant's Writ of habeas corpus petition because Appellant followed the requirements of the form provided to him by the Special Commitment Center law library, a form that largely follows the requirements of the Form, Rules of Appellate Procedure. The Court should ignore the state's complaints regarding the form of Appellant's Writ of Habeas Corpus Petition. Reply to A. issues page 14.

B. Reply to States Argument that Nothing in the Record Supports Claims of Conspiracy or Ex Parte Communication

1. The Court Should Ignore the State's Argument Regarding any Response from the State about Appellant's claims of Conspiracy, and Ex Parte Communication an Attorney from the agency was present in the courtroom the Honorable Philip K. Sorensen ask if there were any Attorneys from the Attorney generals Office and there was know response now the Attorney Generals Office wants the Appellant and the Court of Appeals to believe that out of the blue that know one from the Honorable Philip K. Sorensen court contacted the Attorney Generals Office. Assistant Attorney General filed a late notice of appearance on March 11, 2020. Appellant's allegations do have merit and is supported by the record as replied to in Reply to B. issues page 15, 16.

2. Judicial Bias, the Appellant claims that the Superior Court prejudged the case against him, violating his due process rights to a neutral decisionmaker. Parties to litigation are "entitled to due process, the essence of which is a fair trial before a tribunal free from bias or prejudice." Gardiner v. A.H. Robins Co., 747 F.2d 1180, 1191 (8th Cir.1984) (Citing In re Murchison, 349 U.S. 133, 136-37, 75 S.Ct. 623, 99 L.Ed. 942 (1955)). "Ordinarily, when unfair judicial procedures result in a denial of due process, this court could simply find error, reverse and remand the matter.

1 "Reserve Mining Co. v. Lord, 529 F.2d 181,185 (8th Cir. 1976). In those cases where 2 the court has found a biased or prejudiced district judge resulted in a due process 3 violation, the evidence of bias was overwhelming. For instance, in Gardiner the 4 district judge "stated that he believed the truth of plaintiffs' allegations, adding that 5 he had become an advocate for plaintiffs and that he was, in fact, prejudiced." 747 6 F.2d at 1192. Based on allegations of deceit and bias and consequences on the part of 7 a "decision - maker that necessarily imply the validity of the dismissal of appellant's 8 writ of habeas corpus procedure, Judge delayed any decision on those issues. He was 9 personally responsible for the decision to bypass Appellant's constitutional and civil rights that were being challenge. Reply to B. issues page 15, 16.

1 find out if situation was one of those enumerated in the Code that would mandate 2 recusal. Due Process is denied by circumstances that create the likelihood or the 3 appearance of bias. Peters v. Kiff, 407 U.S. 493, 501, 92 S.Ct. 2163, 33 L.Ed. 2d 83

7 3. An analysis of the extent of a constitutional deprivation is not an exact science 8 capable of quantification, rather it is qualitative in nature. Thompson v.
9 Washington, 162 U.S. App. D.C. 39, 497 F.2d 626, 636 (D.C Cir. 1973). However , 10 we have previously held that “ if state officers conspire in such away as to defeat or 11 prejudice a litigant’s rights in state court, that would amount to a denial of equal 12 protection of the laws by persons acting under color of state law”. Dinwiddie v.
13 Brown, 230 F.2d 465, 469 (5th Cir.), cert. Denied, 351 U.S. 971, 76 S.Ct. 1041, 100 14 L.Ed. 1490 (1956). Conduct by state officers which results in delay in the 15 prosecution of an action in state court may cause such prejudice. As we stated in 16 Rheuark v. Shaw, 628 F.2d 297 (5th Cir. 1980), cert denied, 450 U.S.931, 101 S.Ct.
17 1392, 67 L.Ed.2d 365 1981). Delay haunts the administration of justice. It postpones 18 the rectification of wrong and the vindication of the unjustly accused. It crowds the 19 dockets of the increasing the cost for all litigants, pressuring judges to take shortcuts, 20 interfering with the prompt and deliberate disposition of those causes in which all 21 parties are diligent and prepared for trial, and overhanging the entire process with 22 the pall of disorganization and insolubility. But even these are not the worst of what 23 delay does. The most erratic gear in the justice machinery is at the place of fact 24 finding, and possibilities for error multiply rapidly as time elapses between the original fact and its judicial determination. Reply to C. issues page 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22.

1 4. Supreme Court has said repeatedly that “the writ of habeas corpus indisputably 2 holds an honored position in our jurisprudence” and remains “a bulwark against 3 convictions that violate ‘fundamental fairness.’” Engle v. Isaac, 456 U.S. 107, 126
4 (1982). See, e.g., Slack, 529 U.S. at 483; Smith v. Bennett, 365 U.S. 708, 712
5 (1961). Freedom from bodily restraint and punishment is within liberty interest 712 6 (1961), in personal security that is protected from state deprivation without due 7 process of law. U.S.C.A. Const. Amend. 14. The liberty preserved from deprivation 8 without due process included the right “generally to enjoy those privileges long 9 recognized at common law as essential to the orderly pursuit of happiness by free 10 men.” Meyer v. Nebraska, 262 U.S. 390, 43 S.Ct. 626 L.Ed. 1042 (1923); See Dent
11 v. West Virginia, 129 U.S. 114, 123-124, 9 S.Ct. 231, 233-234, 32 L.Ed. 623 (1889).
12 Among the historic liberties so protected was a right to be free from and to obtain 13 judicial relief, for unjustified intrusions on personal security. The reason that the 14 Constitution requires a State to provide “due process of law” when it punishes an 15 individual for misconduct is to protect the individual from erroneous or mistaken 16 punishment that the State would not have inflicted had it found the facts in a more 17 reliable way. Mathews v. Eldridge, 424 U.S. 319, 335, 344, 96 S.Ct. 893, 903, 907, 18 47 L.Ed.2d 18 (1976). In determining what process is due in a particular 19 circumstance, the Supreme Court, in Mathews v. Eldridge, 424 U.S. 319, 334-335 20 (1976), set forth three factors that a court must weigh: (1) the private interest that 21 will be affected by the official action; (2) the risk of erroneous deprivation of such 22 interest through the procedures used, and the probable value, if any, of additional or 23 substitute safeguards; and (3) the government's interest in the procedure used, 24 including the function involved and the fiscal and administrative burdens that additional or substitute procedural requirements would entail. (Id. At 334- 335 citing Goldberg v. Kelly, 397 U.S. 254,263-271 (1970). Reply to C. issues page 17, 18, 19,
